You are requested to provide us with your name, address, credit card number, e-mail address and phone or fax number. We use this information to confirm and process your booking or enquiry, and for internal purposes. If you hire a car we also save additional information such as your driving licence number, its date of validity, the number of your passport or ID card, your business or private address (Driver-ID) and certain preferences. In the case of some client cards or company contracts between Europcar and other units of a legal or private nature, further information is requested and mentioned in the relevant contracts. Implementation of and passing on of personal data: Europcar uses your data for its own purposes and may pass them on in part to partner companies in Switzerland and abroad to facilitate car rentals. Details (Driver-ID) that are required for rental contracts help us and our partner companies to process the pick-up and return procedures more quickly. Europcar permits public bodies to view the data collected in the face of primary legal regulations.
